

ZICO | insource

Transition experts, anytime, anywhere

Today's volatile economic environment has created the need for corporations or statutory bodies to review their business processes and workflow in order to cope with rising costs and promote business efficiency. One of the methods used by corporations for cost control is to outsource the workload of their support functions to external service providers. We understand that corporations are now constantly looking for flexible working arrangements both in terms of length of engagement and fee structure to meet a demand for a new area of expertise, sudden surges in workload, new transactions or unanticipated absences. In response to such needs, we have set up an insourcing and consultancy service line to provide services such as advising on commercial transactions, human capital, and handling corporate communication matters and preparing documentation for the same. These new services will be provided by ZICO Insource, a subsidiary of ZICO Holdings Inc., throughout the ASEAN region.

Insourcing & Advisory services

Insourcing allows clients to bring external expertise in-house. Our team of professionals will work as part of the client's team to meet temporary surges in work levels, staff demands or to meet any gaps in competency. We assist corporations whom may require extra resources in areas to advise on and/or prepare documentation for commercial transactions, human capital or corporate communication by providing suitable candidates with relevant industry experience for new transactions or day-to-day work. Alternatively, clients may transfer their daily in-house functions, to our team, which would then allow their in-house team to focus on core specialised areas.

Seamlessly

Our services can be provided either on site at our client's office or remotely. For Insourcing, to ensure that our talent can integrate seamlessly with our client's organisation, we follow a four-step approach:

Key benefits

- Flexibility to scale up and down their manpower requirements to meet workload demands;
- Internal resources can concentrate on more complex and strategic matters whilst the repetitive daily tasks are outsourced;
- Cost effectiveness with flexible fees structure;
- Opportunity to engage specialist expertise required for complex projects.

Our services include, but are not limited to:

Commercial Documentation

- Reviewing or drafting of commercial documents necessary for the operations of the business
- Reviewing documents for a due diligence exercise
- Drafting letters as required by business support units
